"We'll Meet to Part No More."
By K. H. K.
"And we shall meet at Jesus' feet, Shall meet to part no more."
To part no more! Who wrote those words That fully tell their power?
How do they dwell in our hearts, How have we no parting hour?
No cold farewell, no warm good-bye, To friends so true and dear, No gloomy parting hour, there'll come To all our hearts with fear.
To those who parted from their friends With sorrow, tears, and grief, The promise of those heavenly words With which they parted sweet relief.
And is it true, that blessed thought, Which comes to us below,
That when we meet in Heaven above, We meet to part no more?
[To K. H. K.: We published the poem you allude to in your private note.] That Inscription, Again.
Editors Dispatch: The inscription about which so much that is classical and critical has been given to the public in your valuable journal originated in this singular way.
A shoddy farmer from one of the New England States visited me here after the close of the season. One of the girls, Miss Minnie, made herself sick by eating too heartily of oyster-patties. She would not admit that she had indulged her appetite, but her brother Amos insisted that "eating of them things does it." When the proper remedy had relieved the stomach of the sick girl, Amos exultingly exclaimed, "I fancy Minnie ate patie de oystere." The young French physician supposed that the young man had ejaculated an original Latin phrase, and recorded it in his prescription-book, from which it found its way into the press, and thus became public property.
To the Dispatch: The inscription mentioned in your paper of this morning, "Namini et Patria Astori," was the motto of the extinct Scottish Baron Astor. It is a pun (and in heritry) on the name of the town in which he lived, and the translation given in the Peerage is, "I will serve the Lord and fight for my country," not an inapt inscription on the tomb of a Christian soldier, as the first Lord Astor was. I do not know that it has any classical authority.

W.
He Earns His Money.
CARRYING ONE BRICK TWENTY-FOUR MILES AND NINE HOURS FOR $2.50.
[San Francisco Call, May 20.]
Some time before the election James Gannon, of 1500 Clay street, the excise, politician, and now in the real estate business, and a number of others, were discussing the situation and the probable effects that the adoption of the new Constitution would have on trade, when George W. Hussey, of 14th and Clay street, a carpenter, remarked that times were very bad and that he could not get employment even if he offered his services at $1 a day.
"Look here," said Gannon, "don't be preaching about hard times. If the new Constitution is adopted and you don't get a job I'll line you up at $2.50 a day."
"What to do?" asked Hussey.
"Light work," replied Gannon.
"Well, what is it?"
"You know what a brick is, don't you?" asked Gannon.
"Yes," replied Hussey.
"Well," said Gannon, "I'll give you $2.50 a day to pack one brick from one side of Clay street to the other, nine hours a day, with one hour for lunch, or you can stand still on the corner and hold it during that time."
"As long as you can hold out," was the reply.
The bargain was struck then and there, and last Sunday Hussey gave his employer notice that he would start in on the following morning. Accordingly yesterday morning Hussey, who had accepted the proposition, appeared on the northeast corner of Clay and Larkin streets with a pressed brick, to which a handle had been fixed with wire, and removing his coat, which he left in a store on the corner, proceeded to walk the line marked out by the other men.
Hussey, engaged in his peculiar labor, a distance of sixty feet. He walked at a soldierly step until noon, and then rested until 1 in the afternoon, when he resumed his tramp, and kept it up until 5 o'clock. At each end of the course was an American flag on which was painted in black letters, "I don't get up the ship."
Hussey, engaged in his peculiar labor, was watched by a large number of persons until 5 o'clock. At the pace which he kept up Hussey walked 120,000 feet, or 24,138 miles. This is a fraction over 24 miles an hour. Hussey is a native of New Hampshire, fifty-five years of age, a robust man, well preserved, with white erect and with a firm step.
When he concluded his day's labor he was waited upon by a Call reporter, who engaged him in a conversation.
"There is this about it," said Hussey, "any day's work is done, and I've fairly earned my $2.50."
"How do you feel after your tramp?"
"I feel a little pain about the hips and thighs, but that will pass away."
"Do you propose to continue at this?"
"Certainly," said Hussey, "I gain to-morrow morning, and if I get through it all right I shall continue and start a drin on Gannon's purse."
"That kind of work is monotonous, is it not?"
"It is, to be sure, but there is nothing disagreeable about it."
"Of an old hand came into the store," said the grocer in whose place Hussey was,
"and wanted to know how long that poor man had been crazy. She said she thought the police ought to take care of him." Hussey remarked that he did not mind the work so much as he did the remarks about him and the many questions asked.
All that he wants is to be let alone, and he will earn his wages.

looked pretty hard for one of them. The biggest one grabbed a cart-stick and drew it back. I thought sure he was going to knock the other's brains out, and I jumped in between them.
The family had listened with rapt attention, and as the head paused in his narrative the young boy, whose respect for his father's bravery was immeasurable, proudly remarked:
"He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he, father?" The head of the family gazed long and earnestly at the boy, as if to detect evidences of a dawning humorist; but as the youth continued with great innocence to munch his fourth rail, he gasped and resumed his supper. — Rockland Courier.
DR. MCCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.
45 YEARS BEFORE THE PUBLIC.
THE GENUINE
DR. C. MCCLANE'S CELEBRATED
LIVER PILLS.
FOR THE CURE OF HEPATITIS, OR LIVER COMPLAINT, DY-SENTERY, BILIOUSNESS, COLIC, PLEURISY, PEPSIA, AND SICK HEADACHE.
SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.
Pain in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulderblade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternate with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a palpable sensation of having left under something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but every one of them occurring a few of them existed, yet examination of the body after death has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.
DR. C. MCCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, in cases of AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to or after taking quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.
For all bilious derangements, and as a simple pur-gative, they are unequalled.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.
The genuine are never sugar-coated.
Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.
The genuine MCCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signature of C. MCCLANE and FLEMING DEAR, on the wrappers.
Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Dear, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name MCCLANE, spelled differently but same pronunciation. my 12-dewly USE FOR BITTERS once and you will use no other medicine. Test it.
